CONGRESSIONAL HAPPENINGS IN WASHINGTON

By CLARENCE J. BROWN
Member of Congress,
Seventh Ohio District

The battle over H. R. 1776—the so-called Lease-Lend Bill—is on in the House. The bill was reported by the Foreign Affairs Committee, with several amendments, late last week and general debate on the floor began on Monday. Administration leaders expect to force a final vote on the measure by the end of this week, if at all possible. The Administration claims to have sufficient votes pledged to guarantee passage of the measure in the House.

In reporting the bill to the House the Committee on Foreign Affairs recommended several amendments in an effort to refute the charges being made by opponents that the bill will confer such broad powers upon the President as to make him a virtual dictator. One of the amendments provides for a two year limitation on the time the bill shall be in effect. Opponents, however, point out that such an amendment does not in any way deplete or lessen the dictatorial powers the President will have during the next two years; and that at the end of such time there will be such great power vested in the President that he can easily force a continuation of the law and of the delegated powers. Attention is called to numerous other measures conferring special emergency powers upon the President that have been enacted in the past. Each of such bills carried a limit as to the time over which the emergency powers could be exercised by the President; and each and everyone of such time limits have been extended when the period fixed in the original bill expired, and the granted powers are continued in effect today. Without attempting to make too obvious a comparison some of those who are opposed to the Lease-Lend Bill point out that a somewhat similar measure passed through the German Reichstag to confer extensive powers upon Adolf Hitler, when he succeeded Hindenburg, also contained a time limitation; but that when the time limit had been reached Hitler was so entrenched in power that he continued his totalitarian control of the German government and of the destinies of the German people almost automatically.

Another committee amendment provides that the President shall make a report to the Congress each ninety days on his activities under the bill, giving Congress such information as he may deem advisable for them to have. This amendment means nothing, as the President could easily decide he should tell the Congress nothing of importance. Another amendment would require the President to consult with the Chief of Staff of the Army, or of the Navy, before selling, lending or giving away any American war supplies. The President appoints these officials and nothing in the amendment requires him to follow their advice or suggestions—all that would be required is that he consult with them. A final committee amendment expresses the hope of the committee and of the Congress that the President not use American ships as convoys—but in no way prohibits the use thereof.

Opponents of the Lease-Lend measure will offer a substitute bill in the House to provide for the extension of government loans or credits to Great Britain, as the need thereof is demonstrated, upon such terms as will best protect American interests. This, they claim, is the direct method and the most satisfactory way to aid England promptly and quickly. It is the contention of this group, which includes most of the Republican, and a number of Democratic members of the House that it is unnecessary to confer dictatorial powers upon the President in order to give Great Britain American aid promptly and efficiently. They point out that the Lease-Lend Bill in no way specifies or requires the extension of American aid to Great Britain but gives the President sole discretion as to what, if any, aid shall be granted, and under what conditions such aid shall be given. The adoption of the bill and the granting of direct loans or credits to Great Britain, would permit that nation to continue to control her own purchases and to fight her own war. The passage of the Lease-Lend Bill would make aid to Great Britain contingent upon the sole desires of the President, and that country would be placed in the position of being compelled to conduct her end of the war along lines satisfactory and pleasing to the President. By the granting of direct aid to Britain, as provided in the substitute bill, the American people would know just

Mayor Lowell Fess Says He Will Quit

Mayor Lowell Fess, Yellow Springs, has issued a statement that he will resign his $100-a-year job and enter other fields of public service.

Mayor Fess says he knows evils have existed in his town and that he had tried to correct them in a practical way. He says the numbers racket is gambling that is nationwide and that he tried to curb it. The job of mayor in a small town is a delicate one and I feel that I have lost too many friends stood for abuse and slander and taken too much physical and mental punishment for $100 a year.

George Dummally, president of council, will become mayor upon the resignation of Mayor Fess.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Tomlinson Celebrate Anniversary In Miami

The Plymouth, Ind., Pilot gives an interesting account of the celebration of the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Tomlinson, former Cedarvillians, who are winter residents in Miami, Florida.

"At their winter home at 1000 S. W. 5th Street, Miami, Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Tomlinson of Plymouth celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary on Monday, January 27.

"Present for the 50th anniversary were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jacob of Miami, Mrs. Hubert Tanner, Mrs. Martin Rullman and Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Alexander of Plymouth.

"Both Mr. and Mrs. Tomlinson were prominent in the development of Plymouth in business and culture and in the development of the work of the First Methodist church here.

"The former Carrie Alexander, daughter of the late Jacob and Julia Alexander was married to Mr. Tomlinson at Cedarville, Ohio, on January 27, 1891. They lived for a time with his parents, the late Dr. Paul and Lydia Tomlinson on a farm near Cedarville. A physician and farmer, the elder Mr. Tomlinson raised blooded cattle with which his son aided him.

"In the fall of 1895, they moved to Winchester, Ind., in Randolph county, where Mr. Tomlinson went into the lumber business. He soon extended this into a county-wide elevator in which he was associated with his cousins the late William Daniel and with L. E. Daniel of Plymouth.

"Later he invested his money in a telephone company and organized the Winona Telephone Company in 1903. The Daniels and Tomlinsons moved to Winona, the headquarters of the telephone company.

"Mr. Tomlinson then bought the Plymouth telephone company and the Tomlinsons moved to Plymouth in July of 1907.

"In 1927, the Winona Telephone company was sold to the Interstate Telephone Company and in January of 1931, the Interstate was merged to the United Telephone Company and Mr. Tomlinson served as manager for several years. Retiring in the spring of 1932 the Tomlinsons moved to Greensburg for a part of the year, later returning to Plymouth.

"Mr. Tomlinson took over the Plymouth Manufacturing Corporation, then the Box Factory, in July of 1935 and still serves as its president. For

Prof. O. K. Swallen Goes With Purina

Mr. Swallen came to Cedarville from Canal Fulton three years ago and his work in the schools has been highly satisfactory to school authorities and patrons of the school. It is with regret from all that he leaves the schools.

The school board has selected Mr. Robert Dew as vocational agriculture teacher and he has entered upon his work. He graduated from Ohio State in December and comes highly recommended. Mr. Dew is a native of Barnesville, O.

METHODIST CHURCH HERE TO PARTICIPATE IN CRUSADE

The Methodist church of Cedarville will participate in the Methodist Emergency crusade in a nation-wide attempt to raise one million dollars to meet three war-caused appeals. The offering plates of the 43,194 Methodist congregations in the United States will be simultaneously passed on what has been named "Methodism's Day of Compassion," Sunday, March 2.

The Rev. Mr. Markle explains the three types of appeal that are consolidated in this Good Samaritan movement:

(1) $250,000 is to be allotted to the religious and social well-being of young men in army camps and navy yards. Methodist chaplains within these camps will be aided with literature and equipment as needed from the fund. Churches nearby will be helped to meet their enlarged responsibilities in ministering attractively to unusual numbers of youth during the critical hours of "leave." In some cases this fund will provide general Methodism's share in creating interdenominational social and religious centers to sustain and build character.

(2) $250,000 will be devoted to assist the mother church in England in temporarily easing some of the bombed churches. Also in the South and East of England there are parishes so dangerously located that almost the entire congregations have evacuated, leaving quite unprovided for the pastors who are staying to minister to those who remain. Other urgent needs grow out of the necessity of rescuing certain British Methodist missionary personnel and projects which are in jeopardy.

(3) $500,000 will continue and supplement the Methodist overseas relief now in progress; feeding, clothing and sheltering non-combatant war victims. Since the war conditions make added demands on all regular missionary and philanthropic funds both the national and local leaders of this campaign offering and that is an emergency offering and must be allowed to block the flow of giving to the regular world service activities of the church or the result will be the creation of new and equally serious problems.

The national movement is being led by Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, retired of Washington, D. C., who is supported by the Methodist Emergency Commission, composed of all the bishops and a representative number of prominent Methodist laymen and ministers from all the six Jurisdictions of the church. Dr. Orin W. Fifer is executive secretary and Dr. Elmer T. Clark, formerly of Nashville, Tenn., is handling the promotion.

Rev. Mr. Markle has announced the following committee to promote observance of Methodism's Day of Compassion in Cedarville: Mrs. Kathleen Creswell, Clayton Wiseman, David H. Markle.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clemans entertained the Dinner Bridge Club at their home Tuesday evening.

HOME COMING SATURDAY EVE ALFORD GYM

Plans are now complete for the annual homecoming of Cedarville College scheduled for Saturday, February 8. This popular event on the college calendar will open with the customary banquet in the Alford Memorial gymnasium promptly at 6 P. M. President W. S. Kilpatrick will have charge of a brief but interesting dinner program. The complete program of the entire evening will be as follows:

Dinner will be served promptly at 6 P. M. in Alford Memorial Gymnasium. Toastmaster, President W. S. Kilpatrick; Invocation, Marimba solo, Marion Van Tress, '44, Springfield; College Song, The Group.

The basketball game is between Cedarville College and Indiana Technical College with an informal social period to be followed with dancing and refreshments.

It is urged that all alumni, former students and friends of the college plan to attend the homecoming to renew the old friendships and make new ones. The program appears varied enough to satisfy the desires of nearly all, and that it will progress rapidly enough to keep everyone happy. The basketball game promises to be more than just another ball game. Indiana Tech defeated Cedarville on their floor by a very narrow margin. Should Cedarville win this game it would mean a tie for the conference championship.

In order to properly accommodate all guests the committee strongly urges all persons planning to attend the homecoming to make reservations at their earliest convenience. An attempt will be made to serve those persons who are unable to know until the last minute that they will be able to come. However in all justice to those who have sent in reservations it will be necessary to see that they are seated first. If possible please make reservations.

Benefit Show To Be Held At Cozy Theatre

Cedarville is optimistic and alive when she still remembers we have boys and girls in the community who are ambitious and energetic and want something to do.

She has men and women who have been and are still giving their time and money in the work and guidance of the boy and girl scout organization.

Last fall the township board of trustees figured out a plan whereby they could rebuild and decorate a room in the opera house building, which had been no good to the town and turned it over to the boy and girl scout organization in which to hold their meetings.

The Cedar Cliff Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution main project has been to help and maintain as high a standard of living as possible and especially to do some of this work at home.

So they are helping to furnish this room which in the very beginning, must have chairs, also a corner cupboard in which the stools need to keep their materials and tools.

But the biggest item is to raise money to buy chairs as they will need two dozen.

Mr. Nelson Creswell came to the rescue to help when he offered to put on a movie some Tuesday evening and turn over the proceeds minus expenses to the fund.

Now this is where we need the cooperation of the town and community in buying tickets to this show.

It is not asking much of anyone, but if each one will buy one ticket, we will be able to buy the chairs.

Wayne Dill's Neck Broken In Accident

Wayne Dill, Lakewood, O., is in McClellan Hospital, suffering with a fractured neck due to a motor car accident Sunday in Springfield Valley. He was a passenger in a car driven by his father, Lee Dill of Lakewood, O.

Dill was driving south on Route 42 following a car driven by Miss Mary Elizabeth Bohl, Lebanon. A car driven by Charles Clark, 35, Xenia, clipped the rear end of the Bohl car and crashed head on into the Dill car. Mrs. Carrie Dill mother of the injured boy, sustained minor injuries. The Dills were enroute to Florida.

A charge of driving while intoxicated is to be filed against Clark according to officials. Deputy Sheriff O. W. Detrick and Road Patrolman Henry E. Barnett, investigated the accident.

Miss Dorothy Galloway of Denison University spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Galloway.

CORN FARMERS CAN PROFIT FROM TOBACCO FARMERS

If the corn farmers in this section think they are free to act and do as they please in regard to what and how much of a certain crop can be planted, just tear a sheet from the history book of the tobacco farmers and the plight tobacco farmers are in at present. Thousands of tobacco farmers cannot sell their crop at anything like a price that compensates them for the labor involved nor anything like the price in former years.

Tobacco farmers voted for the Communistic crop control law, that is they were told a majority voted for crop control. This law puts every tobacco farmer under government control once farmers vote for it. Moreover tobacco farmers can plant other crops that come in competition with farm crops in other sections of the country. Down south the cotton farmers are paid to reduce crop acreage and then they plant corn and other crops. In the corn belt the government pays farmers for not planting corn. The same is true of wheat yet the "good neighbor policy" of Roosevelt and Hull permits importation of so much wheat each month from Russia. The American cattle feeder also faces more of this kindly gesture policy in admitting Argentine beef free of tariff duty that would protect American feeders.

Elmer F. Kruse, chairman of the Ohio branch of the Russianized Agriculture Committee, whose salary is several times the profit of any two hundred acre farm in the state, plainly stated to the Ohio Farmers' Week crowd at the O. S. U. last week, that the United States may vote in August on the marketing of corn and wheat. Mr. Kruse, after hinting what the next plan would be pulled out the Communistic Club for exhibit that unless farmers vote to tie their own hands and those of their neighbors, there will be no more "corn or wheat loans" in 1941, whatever that means. Farmers should check the experience of tobacco growers before placing their farm land under dictatorial control of a lot of Communistic nondescripts down in Washington that are living as despots at the expense of the American farmer. If you do not do your own thinking, at least keep in mind the "fellow that tried to beat the old shell game."

MAYOR FESS LETS WATER IN ON PROBATE JUDGE

If ever an officeholder in Greene county stepped from one puddle into another time after time, such has been the fate of Probate Judge Homer Henrie. Having put on a sham "gambling talk" recently before a religious group, without even stating his personal opinion or what he would do in an official capacity or what he would recommend to his hearers, the Judge is now between those who follow the game and those who looked to the Judge for a method of cleaning up the county.

To dodge the issue Judge Henrie left the gambling infant at the doors of public officials in each community, or the public if anyone knew about "open gambling". To close his stink the Judge lated law enforcement agencies had informed him there was no "open gambling" in the county.

Now comes Mayor Lowell Fess who states he will resign rather than stand for abuse over the amount of gambling going on in his village. This admission blackened the picture painted by Judge Henrie before the religious group and wonderment now exists on just what motives the jurist had as the originator of the gambling issue in the county and the first to stick his head in the sand until the storm blows over.

THE NATION MUST BACK HENRY FORD

Henry Ford has thrown down a government contract for war trucks, more than 10,000, all because the Under Secretary of War, Robert P. Patterson, one of the war mongers, put a clause in the contract at the request of Sidney Hillman, Communist labor leader and stooge for Roosevelt, demanded that Ford permit labor leaders to operate, manage, hire and fire at the Detroit plants. Ford was lowest bidder by $250,000 but the Roosevelt spenders had no consideration for the dollars that belong to the people and gave the contract to another company at the highest price.

Henry Ford deserves the open support of every American that believes in the brand of democracy of Washington and Jefferson, Lincoln and McKinley. He is to be commended, for by his stand he is giving others in less minor positions courage to stand for their rights under the constitution, which at the present has little or no place in the makeup of the New Deal government. If business is forced to swallow the plan that Ford rejected a sorry time is ahead for manufacturer and farmers as well. Once business is unionized Roosevelt will turn his union blood hounds on the American farmer.

Both Lewis and Green have complained about farm labor conditions and the necessity of organizing farm labor and placing it under the wage and hour law as well as other social security laws. It might be a good thing if the labor leaders could drive their bargain today. There are a lot of farmers that need education on how to manage their own business. With union labor in control they will be in position to learn to take orders without a whimper—or else face a strike.

The public for some time has been wondering just who has been paying for the radio broadcasting to sell England's war to the people of the United States. There have been so far twenty-five speeches over the air favoring the nation entering the war in some form or another to one speech opposing. It has been reported for weeks that England had a propaganda fund of several million dollars to sell the war to this country. If that is so the radio broadcasting stations have become rich. But does anyone suppose the Democratic and New Deal politicians have let any of the million or so get beyond their clutch during the golden harvest?

All the war mongers are much concerned about England. No one has a word of sympathy in that group for the millions of people that fell victim to Hitler's army all because England urged the war on them, promised them aid in a thousand ways and then laid down. France fell for the same reason. Little Finland fell before the Russian Communists after a gallant fight, all on a promise of support from England. The war mongers now praise Russia and try to tickle Stalin's beard thinking this country will make a friend out of the Russians. Back door Russia is selling Germany American made goods.

Last Thursday night the New York Town Hall debate was between Sec. Ickes (ants in his pants Ickes, as Hugh Johnson says), and former Governor Philip LaFollette. As a high pressure real estate salesman Ickes holds the record. All he could say he was for the lease-lend bill and war if necessary, keeping in mind unpredictable events of the future the old Roosevelt excuse. LaFollette is for defending both the Americas against what is sure to come who ever wins the war, European-attempt to control South American trade. Sec. Ickes stated a pre-war agreement between business in England, Germany, and other European nations, that no matter who won the war, South American business must be kept from the United States.

This brings us up to the same information this column carried some weeks ago that the war was economic between England and Germany. At that time we stated England had been under selling American manufacturers in South America due to the low wage scale in Britain. Germany played the last card, the barter system, which stripped England of the business and England began to line up small European nations for the war based on promises of support. This angered Germany and the war was on, neither England or Germany formally declaring war. We reported the experience of an Ohio concern that lost South American business to England.

Everyone is entitled to his own views as to what the New Dealers will do as to war. Everyone from Roosevelt down has been asked what we can do under the give-away bill that we are not doing now. The war mongers stop there—no answer. Roosevelt campaign promises on war before the election entitle him to a blue ribbon in Lowell Thomas' "Tall Story Club".

Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, R., Mich., took advantage of Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, turncoat Republican to New Dealer to get something he could not get from his own party, and asked him what was his purpose of ordering 4,500,000 tags to be used to identify the men killed or wounded in battle. The Senator thought it unusual to at least order four and a half million death tags for an army in training that was not to be sent across the ditch to aid England. Stimson had to admit that he was not familiar with the contract. Even a Democrat senator, Byrnes, S. Carolina, thought the contract was unusual. He thought a few might be needed in army training. Parents of boys in camp might send congratulations to Stimson for his thoughtfulness in having supplies to tag the "dead soldiers," who are not to enter the European war.

It is surprising that Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears & Roebuck, has forsaken his old associate, Franklin D. Due to the administration attitude towards England. Woods has served on various New Deal commissions and his company sold the first lumber for the building of New Deal ghost towns ever timber. Wood says: "If we attempt to underwrite a British victory, it means active entry into the war, a long, exhausting, and suicidal world conflict." Wood has been associated long enough with Roosevelt and probably has good reason to believe that he has no intention of keeping his promise. He also knows that Woodrow Wilson had to tie the Roosevelt hands and seal his lips during the World War. Roosevelt aspires to be commander of the armies of the world. Each week we watch for the rush of Greene county Democrats and New Dealers marching their sons up to draft stations as volunteers in King Franklin's coming war. A Roosevelt vote last November was a vote for WAR and Democrats should display their patriotism and do more shouting today. The real test is not far away and that will be the day the solicitors call for subscriptions to the Roosevelt war bond issues to pay for England's war and our own defense. The list of subscribers and the amount will make interesting reading.

Dayton is tied up with a strike of teamsters, which of course nowadays, is largely truck-drivers. There can be no deliveries of merchandise for factories or stores until where the management has signed a contract with the union. Milk is being delivered as one of the necessities. We were in the office of a wholesale company a few years ago in Cincinnati during such a strike as Dayton now has. The manager did not seem to be disturbed about the outcome when we asked his views. His reply was, "I am only waiting for the union to present its contract which I will sign at once. The increased cost of delivery is just one of those things you can always get your money back by increasing the price of the merchandise. I have notified all customers to increase catalogue prices two per cent." As this company manufactured an article used on every farm and many homes in town, and is now retained here as elsewhere, the consumer after all has paid the bill. When farmers wake up to the fact they have no opportunity of passing extra costs on when they sell grain or live stock, there may be a different story until then the farmer and rural consumer pays the bill. Now that the wage and hour bill, New Deal measure, is a fixture, you as a consumer are also going to pay for the days a union factory worker does not work, known as unemployed insurance. The manufacturer of the milk bucket will add that to the cost of the bucket and the consumer need not shop around for every company in the manufacturing business will add this cost to his merchandise.

There may have been a better reason why Elliott Roosevelt was given a bomb-proof job at Wright Field than merely escaping military duty. At that time you will recall the New Dealers pictured him as making a sacrifice in taking the job, as he was drawing $40,000 or some other fantastic figure, salary a year. Now it develops that the company he was supposed to head as president was "bust" and is now being liquidated in U. S. Courts. Elliott filed a claim last week for $70,000 as a holder of 4,000 shares of Class A stock. It would be interesting to the public to know on what terms he acquired this stock.

There is one representative in the Ohio legislature, William D. Radcliff, a Republican from Circleville, O., that may face the high platform and the loose looped rope if the New Dealers have their way. He says the government is overloaded with boards and commissions and he is going to make an effort to do away with two such outfits, abolish the barber and cosmetology boards. He makes a serious charge that the barber board is only a club used to force barbers to join the union; that it prohibits advertising of prices and is operated for politics. As for the board regulating the "lady barbers" beauty shops, he claims it is a means of cooperation to force higher prices on customers. Heads of both departments claim that the operation of these boards does not cost the taxpayers anything and each tries to show just how much money is paid into the state treasury but neither show how much has been spent by each board. Radcliff says Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public when they enter these places are the ones that are stuck for what he terms unusual fixed prices. Both boards claim they have performed a "great public service." About a year or so ago a Greene county barber wanted the appointment as secretary of the barber board, which he did not get. At that time he stated to the writer "the job is the biggest piece of graft about the state house, and I might just as well cut in on it as not." A Cleveland union barber took the prize.

An Iowa farmer visiting Xenia made the statement some time ago while discussing politics that the farmers of the country "should get down on their knees and thank God that Roosevelt was president rather than Henry Wallace." He says the government is holding millions of bushels of old corn in storage, much of it molded or damaged so far as feeding value is concerned. He claims some cribs have as much as three and four feet of moulded corn or corn damaged by rats. This corn is worthless other than the fact it is used to hold down the price of corn grown this past year. He says whenever there is prospect of any great change in the market price up would the government announce it will release several million bushels of stored corn and down goes the market price. He says wheat is used for the same purpose and the government announced some days ago the sale of several million bushels of "security wheat" and down went the price of wheat. The millers filled their bins with the cheap wheat. When the New Deal promised organized labor no increase in living prices under the war, no promise was made the farmer, not even a fair return for his labor.

We read with interest a few days ago an "AP" dispatch stating the government accounting office reported that 700 New Deal Democrats had made trips for some reason or another at government expense down in Florida. All these trips were made between November 1939 and March 1940. E. W. Bell, Audit Chief, is the authority for the statement. Certainly, why should a Democrat want to go to Florida in July that is the month he is due in northern Michigan or Maine?

Three years ago when we were in Jacksonville, Fla., in March, we stepped around the corner from the Jackson Hotel when we took a view of the new Roosevelt Hotel, and RFG institution. In that one block we counted eight government automobiles, all from the agricultural department. Of course these Democrats were on government business "hunting bugs that destroy crops." Four of the ag salary eaters that entered one auto in our presence had been thoroughly inoculated against insect bites. A colored chauffeur was at the wheel, otherwise the party could not have gotten around the square.

Representative John Hayden, Rep., Clermont county, offers a bill in the Ohio legislature to protect farm owners from embezzlement of crops on the part of crooked tenants. If the crop, stock or other farm crop taken is valued at $35, the tenant can face a charge of embezzlement. Hayden says Ohio farmers lost about a million a year in this manner and at present have little protection. Rep. Newton B. Campman, Rep., Geauga, offers a bill changing the fine of $5 to $50 or six months imprisonment for trespassing on farm land. The Hayden bill is not to be taken as a general indictment of all tenants but the records in court cases show the loss to be more than a million a year to Ohio farm owners.

Gen. Hugh Johnson, who spoke before the Ohio Lumber Dealers in Columbus, last week, on the war outlook said: "If you want to get in the war tomorrow, convoy ships to Britain. The way it looks now England can't win without four or five million American soldiers or a revolution on the continent—and there's no sign of a revolution. The lend-lease bill is an abomination."

The fight over the lend-lease bill in Washington has caused almost a personal encounter between Roosevelt and Sen. Wheeler, D. Charges and counter charges have been made between the two. In capital halls some of the most startling remarks ever known are being repeated. Such remarks as "Hitler's Agent"; "Fifth Avenue Trash"; "Lie and Liar"; "Fish —", a term being applied by New Dealers against a former Roosevelt supporter who opposed Roosevelt promises to England; "Charges that money had been offered to implicate a Senator on a statement concerning Hitler and Germany." The Roosevelt-Lord Halifax forces are leaving nothing undone to force passage of the lease-lend bill. The Roosevelt smear gang never was busier than branding all Democratic opponents of a measure that is to "glow under every fourth boy" as charged by Sen. Wheeler. No issue during the New Deal ever drew hatred and anger with vile language from the White House as has the bill to sell America England's war.

Cleveland has the first "Telenews" in Ohio, a picture theatre for news reels only. Scores of different news events at home and on the war front are pictured in a new way. It is reading your newspaper by pictures in up-to-day events in a one hour program.

Politicians, Republicans and Democrats, have been having a glorious time the past week over a sworn statement appearing in an out-of-the-county paper which seems to exonerate a local attorney, of the gray hair vintage, about something the public would like to know more. The statement was sworn to by a beer baron who operates the "Hole in the Wall", South Detroit st. The feature Xenia lawyers chuckle about is that the affidavit is made voluntarily without compensation. The Democrats get delight in discussing the affidavit and wonder just what would happen if someone would make an affidavit to the lawyer that solicited a "campaign contribution of three figures from the slot-machine interests last October. The lawyer was not representing either of the political party campaign managers. Out merely to get a bowl of "gravy".

Fire Breaks Out In Opera House Roof Thursday

Fire did a limited amount of damage in a ventilator around a chimney on the south side of the building that served the postoffice.

The fire was discovered about 9:30 by Postmaster R. C. Ritenour and the department, which is housed in the same building and directly under the location of the fire, soon had the flames under control.

The supposition is the fire started from a defective flue as no electric wires are close. The chimney has been in use since the building was erected fifty-three years ago.

Had the fire received its start in the night when few were on the street, and the wind from the south, the whole building would have been a mass of flames in a short time. All the roof structure is of wood construction and the ventilator was of wood, one side and end being burned out.

The building is owned jointly between the township and village, the latter having the room for the fire department and mayor's office with the jail quarters in partnership. The loss is covered by insurance.

A Red Cross Sewing will be held at the Presbyterian Church, Feb. 12th at 1:30. Dresses of wool for little girls will be made. A new quota for the county has been made and will be due May 31. A call is for knitted sweaters and children's clothing. Woolen dresses for women and girls and hospital supplies with layettes.

Mr. Henry Wisecup is in an improved condition at McClellan Hospital, where he underwent an emergency operation Saturday night.

War Dictatorship Means Farm Ruin

Write Congress Demanding Bill Be Killed, Wood Committee Urges.

Farmers more than any other class in America will suffer if the war dictatorship bill now before Congress is enacted into law, because the measure will lead us into war and that, will inevitably bring inflation, the America First Committee warned today, urging all citizens to write both to their Senators and their Congressmen demanding that the bill be killed.

Experience from our part in Europe's last war has taught agricultural America, including those who deal in farm produce or who sell to the farmer, that while wars are fought on battlefields their lasting effects are wrought on barren farms.

With war comes inflation of all prices, including those for produce, farms and labor. The last war taught us that conclusively, as anyone will remember who bought a farm in 1917 or 1918 and later ever tried to realize on his investment and labor. Another will bring the same inflation of all prices, and the farmers again will be left bankrupt, the America First Committee predicted.

But not only will the farmer suffer from an inevitable post-inflation depression, the America First Committee pointed out, while he has been riding the wave of wartime inflation prosperity he will be confronted with a new high cost of labor.

Under the dictatorial powers granted in the proposal introduced for the administration by Sen. Barkley and Rep. McCormack, the President could rule farm youths no longer exempt from being drafted into the Army and Navy. Sons could be taken from their farm homes, put in the armed forces and again shipped overseas to fight on foreign soil in a war which in no way threatens or affects America.

Farmers will turn to hiring farm hands to replace the sons who helped on the farm. But with the highly competitive labor market in defense industry in the cities, which will be able to afford much higher wages, farmers will have to pay salaries far beyond their normal means to attract labor to the country.

That this country already has been started down the road to war by the incessant barrage of ventriloquist propaganda was vividly demonstrated by the President's belated announcement that he had traded 50 destroyers of our battle fleet to Great Britain in exchange for 99-year leases on Naval bases off our eastern coast.

Then, after an intensive campaign of propaganda trying to frighten the American people into the war by using such bogies as the possibility of an invasion attempt, these same forces had the war dictatorship measure introduced.

Well-remembered is the President's "flight schedule" address with which he tried to frighten the nation into thinking it was on the verge of being invaded by an air attack, and that, supposedly would fly over 3,000 miles of ocean and meet no resistance from our own army, navy and air forces.

Certainly, we want to aid Britain, the Committee statement continued, but not at the price of our own defense. Not by shipping to the English Isles all our sorely needed armament production. Let's aid to the limits of the Johnson and Neutrality Acts, which have been ample in the past and which may be extended even further and remain within the laws, not give away all that we make, nor strip our under-equipped army and navy of their arms and ships.

With the scare campaign of interventionists, movements were inaugurated to repeal the Johnson Act, which prohibits bankers from making loans to any country in default on a debt to the United States; and the Neutrality Act, which requires that ammunition purchases be made on a cash and carry basis and which prohibits American ships from entering war zones and combatant countries from financing their war through bond issues floated in this country.

Then, at the peak of the campaign, the war dictatorship bill was introduced into a startled Congress. The bill is the last step to war. To defeat it is to keep this nation from the conflicts of Europe. Its passage not only will embroil us and make this nation a battlefield susceptible to attack but at once will establish a dictatorship in this country.

General Robert E. Wood, acting national chairman of the America First Committee, said that the tragic irony of this bill is that it seeks to protect democracy in Great Britain by abandoning democracy in the United States. General Wood was Chief Quartermaster at the construction of the Panama Canal and Acting Quartermaster General of the U. S. Army during the World War.

"We would lose the fight before it began," General Wood said. "The President is not asking for a blank check; he wants a check book with the power to write away our resources, our man power, our laws and our liberties."

Fights War Bill

General Robert E. Wood, Acting National Chairman of the America First Committee, who is demanding that the war bill be killed by Congress. The General, who was Chief Quartermaster at the construction of the Panama Canal and Acting Quartermaster General of the Army during the World War, asked every citizen to write or wire his two Senators and Congressmen insisting that the bill be defeated and no compromise accepted.

The bill, the general said, "wipes out every safeguard we have devised to protect our nation in times like these."

The measure has other drastic powers which would give the President complete power and leave Congress and the people with no authority to express themselves. The President could, if he wanted, cancel any federal law on the statutes; give all our armament and ammunition, all our military secrets, to any nation he desired to have them; it would open our harbors and shipyards to warships of any nation the President named; it would allow him to seize the ships of one country, while in an American harbor, and turn them over to another country.

But, fortunately, Americans still live in a democracy, and the power to stop this dictatorship measure, which would transform this country into a totalitarian state faster than Hitler transformed Germany, still lies in the hands of the people. This most serious piece of legislation which ever confronted a free people, this Magna Charta of dictatorship, can be rejected only if an aroused citizenry writes its representatives in Congress and insists the measure be killed.

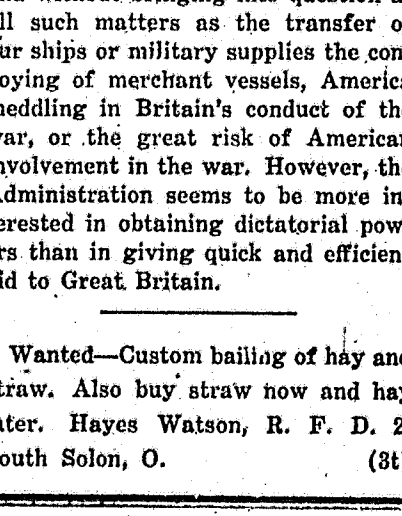

A few short words, either a letter or telegram to both Senators and the Congressman telling them that the bill must be killed and no compromise accepted, is all that a citizen has to do to assure the continuation of our present form of government and our nonintervention in European Wars.

what such was costing, and they would know under what conditions the plans or credits had been given. There would be no limitations on costs and no knowledge of the conditions and requirements concerning the granting of aid to Britain or other countries. Adoption of the substitute bill would permit quick, efficient and satisfactory aid to Great Britain in a constitutional, direct and open manner, without the legislative branch of government surrendering its control of expenditures, without conferring dictatorial powers upon the President, and without bringing into question all such matters as the transfer of our ships or military supplies the conveying of merchant vessels, America meddles in Britain's conduct of the war, or the great risk of American involvement in the war. However, the Administration seems to be more interested in obtaining dictatorial powers than in giving quick and efficient aid to Great Britain.

THE CHRISTIAN'S ATTITUDE TOWARD POSSESSIONS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 16:10-15, 19-23. GOLDEN TEXT—Ye cannot serve God and mammon.—Luke 16:13.

"In the service" is an expression much used today. Every community has young men in the service of their country. But they are not the only "service men," for the fact is that every man and woman serves under some authority. Our lesson today reminds us that our attitude toward our possessions determines both character and destiny. We decide whether they shall rule us or we shall rule them.

1. Who Is Your Master—God or Gold? You Decide! (vv. 10-15). The decision here is of the "either-or" variety. "Ye cannot serve God and mammon" (which means "riches").

Money itself is neither good nor bad. It is the use to which it is put that determines whether it is to bless or to destroy. Rightly gained and rightly used, money is an honor to the man who has it, and will, through him, become a means of blessing. On the other hand, money which controls a man will blast his own soul and those of others round him.

Who decides which it shall be? You—and you alone. Here we come to the central truth of the matter. "He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much" (v. 10). We generally read that as though it said, "He that is faithful in a little will later have an opportunity to be faithful in much." That may be true, but what Jesus said here was that he "is faithful in much."

The point is that the man who is faithful in the much shows the attitude by being faithful in the little. That is, only the man who is right in the great matter of his relationship with God will be the ruler over his possessions for the glory of God and the good of his fellow men. Someone may say, "I don't believe that." Well, you are in bad company (see vv. 14, 15). The Pharisees, who loved money, who were self-righteous, and whose attitude was an abomination in the sight of God, derided the words of Jesus.

If you don't like that kind of companions, I invite you to come over on God's side.

II. Where Will You Spend Eternity? Your Life Decides (vv. 19-23). Our life beyond the grave is determined by our life on this side of death. Yes, we know that eternal life is a gift of God received by faith in Christ as Saviour, quite apart from our own works or our merits. But let us not forget that this means far more than uttering a few words of profession or going through a formula.

The man who really turns to Christ in saving faith becomes a new creature; he is born again (1 Pet. 1:23). That means that he walks "in newness of life" (Rom. 6:4). And thus his life in this world determines both by decision for Christ and daily living for Him that he will, like Lazarus, be received into eternal blessedness.

Sad to say, the opposite is also true. Living as the rich man did, for self, will bring judgment in the world to come. There is no indication that he was especially wicked, but only that he loved his money, revelled in the fleshpots display of his wealth (v. 19), and had no thought for others (v. 21). Here again, the point is that these outward deeds were the expression of a heart attitude against God.

Death came to both of these men. It will come to all of us, unless the Lord returns to take us to Himself. It is not a pleasant matter to think of death, but only the unintelligent will fail to recognize the coming of that day. When it comes, it may be too late to make any real life decisions. Now is the acceptable time. Today is the day of salvation.

The verses immediately following our lesson in chapter 16 indicate that the decision of men concerning their relationship to God is not dependent on the miraculous, but on moral and spiritual truth. The man who says he would believe if he could only see God perform a miracle is only evading the issue. Verse 23 says that the man who rejects God's Word does so because he wants to, not because he needs to be convinced by a miracle.

We Sleep to Wake
One who never turned his back, but matched breast forward, Never doubted clouds would break; Never dreamed, though right were worsted, wrong would triumph; Held, we fall to rise, are baffled to fight better, Sleep to wake.

Temperance Notes

Cedarville W. C. T. U.

The 1940 Advisory Referendum on the wet-dry issue in South Carolina was so worded as to prejudice the case against prohibition, but in spite of that the drys won by a 50,000 majority. The question was worded: "Do you favor discontinuing the legal sale of intoxicating liquors, wines, beers and other intoxicating beverages, and the imposition of new taxes to replace lost revenue as a result of the repeal of the present liquor law?"

Alcohol Education, "Poster Service" Rev. L. R. Kinnard told of his Poster Service. He said that each poster was calculated to put across one idea so that "the who runs may get it as he goes."

There are 1700 schools in Ohio, and 2120 cities and villages and towns listed on the road map. These posters are changed every Monday and 5000 poster stations are needed to cover Ohio. He presented each county president with a set of posters.

Non-alcoholic beer is one of the steps toward abstinence from alcoholic beverages being pushed in Germany as a part of the Nazi health and efficiency program.

The temperance work is being carried on under a bureau "Against the Dangers of Alcohol and Tobacco," which is said to embrace all the temperance unions of the Reich. It aims to arouse in the German people themselves the conviction that they are better off without smoking or drinking, reports the New York Times.

So far the main success of the temperance drive is said to have been achieved in upper-class circles and among women. The leaders predict that tobacco in all forms may be subjected to increasingly high taxes, thus automatically limiting its consumption. Beer is to be gradually supplanted by the non-alcoholic "people's drink," while wines are to become luxuries.

The Shawnee Indians 202 years ago voted for Prohibition in their tribe, according to Harry Wilson, West Chester, Pennsylvania, historian.

After Pennsylvania authorities refused to regulate the sale of liquor to the Indians, the chiefs held a council at Pittsburgh, Mr. Wilson asserts, and on March 15, 1737, the emissaries voted to go dry. Four braves in each village were named "dry agents" and enforced the tribal law.

Ask Protection for Army Men

Eighty thousand members of the International Young People's League of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, alarmed over the liquor conditions in the country, adopted a resolution demanding that liquor sales be prohibited within at least ten miles of Army camps and cantonments.

Leeb's, one of the unique stores in Fargo, North Dakota, sells raw fruit and vegetable juices. During the week of the North Dakota W.C.T.U. convention in the city, the specialty was carrot and celery juice. According to the advertisement in the Fargo Forum, the use of these juices will produce "excess health."

Not to mislead the public, the advertisement continues, however, with the warning that those who undermine their health by cigarettes need not expect it to be improved by juices or anything else.

Early Ohio History

At the fourth Ohio Legislative session the House and Senate met jointly December 3, 1805 to canvass the vote for Governor cast at the previous October election and declared Governor Tiffin re-elected with no votes cast for any other candidate. It was the second time he was chosen unanimously, marking up a remarkable record.

Governor Tiffin also shattered precedent by delivering his annual message in person. The legislature approved a proposed amendment to the Federal Constitution providing that United States Justices might be removed from office by a majority vote of both Houses of Congress. The amendment, however, failed by reason of not receiving the required two-thirds vote of the States.

On account of the ravages of wolves and panthers in some sections, a bounty law was passed, scalp of these animals bringing from fifty cents to four dollars.

A general movement for road and turnpike construction now began and within a comparatively short time the construction of some twelve hundred miles of road was under way, of course, in the older settled sections. The first routes were from Portsmouth to Chillicothe; Marietta to the line between Washington and Belmont counties; New Lisbon to the Muskingum River; Lisbon via Hamilton to the west State line; Gallipolis to Athens; Cleveland to the Cuyahoga portage; Lancaster to Franklinton (Columbus); Xenia to the Chillicothe-Portsmouth Road; Chillicothe to Springfield; Hamilton to town of Great Miami; Newcomerstown to Morristown. The road supervisor was required to erect posts at the forks of every road "containing an inscription in legible characters, directing the way to the next town or public place." A fine of twenty dollars was provided for defacing or destroying these guide posts.

Youthful Hopes

By Charles Evans Lammie

"Thank you so much for the $55. One of these days I will quit asking you for dough. Won't you be glad to see that day come?"

Mrs. Langston was telling her pastor about the latest letter from her son Robert. She quoted those sentences, and mentioned the dollar signs. She and Mr. Langston planned that their second son go through college. In fact they saved fifty cents a week from his birth for this purpose. Then, all the small change he earned on errands went into his savings bank. When relatives gave him a dollar or so at Christmas, it was placed in his savings account. He was in the fifth grade when he took a paper route, and kept it gradually enlarged till he finished high school. His earnings went into his savings. As a result he had enough for his first year in college. After a few months on the campus, he found one of the self-help jobs. This netted him enough to pay fifty percent of his expenses at the school. He was determined to finish with honor as his brother had done.

Mrs. Langston could quote these words to her minister because he had successfully persuaded the Langstons to send their sons to his Alma Mater. The clergyman knew their circumstances were moderate. He was sympathetic.

Now that Robert is a senior, he is beginning to look hopefully toward a position, and an income of his own. "It might be in the army," his mother said he wrote recently. "His number is high, but he is thinking of enlisting after commencement for a year. He hopes then to have his military service over."

"That might not be a bad idea," said the pastor who had served in the First World War.

It is a look into youthful hopes. The young man's world is different from the kind of world young men of past generations saw. One billion people have come under the blight of war or conquest during the last nine years. A half-billion more are living in the colonies of the warring nations. Sixteen countries have lost their independence. Tens of millions of folks have lost their homes and ways of earning a living. Only one-fifth of the human race is at peace, and it is a very insecure peace for these four hundred million.

Shall the young collegian's hope of personal and professional success be thwarted? Perhaps, but perhaps not. No one knows what the future holds for the individual in this world. The best he can do is to build up a personal faith in God, and trust that all things will work together for good. Order will come out of chaos. His educational preparation under Christian teachers is abundantly worthwhile. His fitness for service in his day and generation will be rated high, and who knows but what he and his kind will keep us in the way of peace? Perhaps too the youthful hopes of the present college generation will be realized in America leading a righteous campaign for eventual permanent world peace. Let us encourage them.

Number One Leading Man

OPERA, concert, and radio have their demands for leading men as well as Hollywood, and the young man of those three fields is James Melton, singing star of the Telephone Hour program heard every Monday night with Francis White and Donald Voorhes' 57-piece Bell Symphony Orchestra and chorus.

Between his Monday radio shows James Melton is constantly on tour. A concert in New York today and tomorrow, and most of the time playing opposite some famous leading lady. As a matter of fact, this young tenor plays opposite more leading ladies than any other male star in radio, concert, or opera. On Monday evening he is heard from coast to coast with the charming soprano Miss Francis White (O). Other concert dates and opera performances are him playing opposite Lily Pons (3), Helen Jepson (4), Gladys Swarthout (5), Rose Hampton (2), Rhea Stevens (6), and Hilda Burke (1), pictured above.
